citement and sensation had not long to wait, for it soon became known that the Union Trust Company had suspended, at least until Monday morning, and this was shortly followed by the announcement that the Bank of the Commonwealth had closed its doors. This was supplemented by the throwing out of checks of certain banks at the Clearing-house, while at the same time a heavy run was made ou the leading banking houses and prominent untional banks. Following in the train of this came the announcement of several new failures. The general feeling of further distrust found expression in the reckless pressure of stecks on the market, and wild and indiscriminate sacrifices were the immediate result. At this time the street was filled with flying stories of the suspension of banks and banking-houses, until the excitament exceeded anything heretofore witnessed. It became painfully apparent at this juncture that in order to protect matters from going to utter ruin some decided step was necessary. Recognizing the exigencies of the case, the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange called a meeting at which it was deemed advisable to close the Exchange at once. This was accordingly done about mid-day.

SATURDAY, Sept 20-P. M.

Our readers will look to another department of

THE TRIBUNE for a description of the scenes in and ountry, and almost entirely upon credit. This reckless creation and sale of new securities could only have culminated in financial disaster, and the country can as well bear it now as at any other time. We have abundant crops and favorable markets for them all over the world, and the real resources of the country are as large, and if the country are in a healthy and happy condition.

some extravagant livers will be compelled to reduce expenses, and they and the country will be the better for the change. There will be widespread disappointment, but it is to be hoped very little absolute distress among a large class of persons of moderate means who have invested their savings in the new bonds of railroads built in advance of the demands of the country traversed by them. As to Wall-st, the immediate cene of the excitement, there is very good reason to hope that the climax of distress was reached to-day; that the wise heads of the Clearing-house and the Stock Board will devise means for continuing business as of old, and that the great strain will pass away, leaving bright sunshine behind it at no very distant day. There will be some debris to be cleared up and some old hulks to be removed; but our countrymen are too impatient to stand still and too ener getic to spead much time in bemoaning the past. It is rather to be feared that the great lesson of the hour will be only too little heeded, such is the haste with which important events are buried and forgotten in this fast-going country of ours. As to the depreciation in the price of securities it must be remembered that their intrinsic values are as great as they ever were. This is not like a Chicago or Boston fire that reduces to ashes valuable buildings stored with merchandise, or hurricanes that sink to the bottom of the sea fleets of merchant ships with their rich cargoes. It is only those stocks and bonds upon which we have placed entirely fictitious values that will not rise again to their former prices. Our great lines of railroad to the West never had a more promising immediate future. The New-York Central road will soon complete its new freight tracks to the Lakes, and will be enabled to carry three-fold its present capacity, and at a reduction of 10 to 15 per cent in the rates; and in many of the products of the West this difference in tolls is all the difference between a profit and a loss to the producer. So will all the railroads that are not placed "out of humanity's reach," enter upon the Fall business with the most hopeful prospects. The iron and coal business the Board adjourning until further notice, while members were forbidden to trade in the outside market under penalty of expulsion. The Board was in session therefore only thout two hours, but in this time we have scarcely ever seen such a rapid decay in values. The fluctuations were violent and so frequent as to make an analysis of the business impossible. We therefore present our usual table showing the opening, highest, lowest, an closing prices of active stocks, as follows: N. Y. C. and Hudson , Lack., and Western. The subjoined table shows the extreme quotations of United States bonds, the leading railway and miscellaneous shares, and gold for the past week, as well as the closing quotations of each at the dates undermentioned:

The gold market has been without material excitement, the general bustle and turmoil of the street having no connection with the Gold Room. The opening price was 1111, with 1111@112 as the closing quotations, sales in the interim having been made at 1111@1124. On gold loans the rates paid for having balances carried were 1-16 until Monday, and at the rate of 7, gold, and 7@6 per cent per annum. The President of the Gold Exchange Bank early in the day announced the impossibility of effeeting a general clearance, as many of the dealers in gold were unable to get their checks certified in a proper manner, and hence all statements and checks were returned. The Assistant Treasurer redeemed $104,000 in call bonds, and paid out $50,000 in coin

The day's business at the U. S. Sub-Treasury was:

The coin movement of the week covered the disbursement of $221,000 coin interest and $235,000 redeemed 5-20s, the Custom receipts footing up $2,703,000.

The money market was unsettled, and until near the close of the day there were no quotable rates. The difference, however, of 2@3 per cent existed between cash and regular transactions in stocks. The banks went into session at 1 o'clock to discuss some method for the alleviation of the panic. After due deliberation it was unanimously resolved to permit the use in the settlement of clearing-house differences, of certificates issued to the extent of 75 per cent of the current value of the securities held by the banks. This in lieu of settling in greenbacks, as is the present custom. The extent to which this can be used is $10,000,000. The bank presidents propose to remain in session all night, and it is understood that the above issue will be further supplemented, if necessary. The modus operandt is as follows: A bank not at the moment holding sufficient greenbacks can take to the Clearing-house Committee prime assets, either in securities or undoubted mercantile paper, and obtain on the same 75 per cent of their valuation in Clearing-house certificates, which are available in paying differences at the Clearing-house. The certificates bear 7 per cent interest. The arrangement is practically a union of the banks, and is calculated to economize the use of legal-tenders. The equalization of the legal-tender reserves of the banks will, it is hoped, result in the full restoration of confidence in the street, and tend to confine the panic to its present Wall-st. limits. Money when this announcement was fully known lent at 7 @ 7 per cent gold, having previously commanded as high as 1 per cent bonus per diem. The beneficial results were indicated in the fact that in the outside market Central stock is reported to have sold as high as par for its equivalent in greenbacks, and the day closes with a strong hope that affairs next week, after the interregnum of Sunday, will be on the mend.

There is nothing to say of the Government bond market to-day, and the following were the only quotations made at the Board:
